

The Imperial Christmas

International Ballroom
Dance School

Dresden
December 2017

You are cordially invited to another Imperial Christmas in Dresden in 2017.

An intensive dance course will contain newly reconstructed and choreographed social dances of the 19th century – waltz, polka, mazurka (varsoviennne), galop and quadrille. The course will conclude with a stylish Advent Ball night, full of the most beautiful ball dances from different European countries, with lively music performed by magnificent musicians and soloists.

The 7th Ball night at the palace „Albrechtsberg“ in Dresden.

Enjoy the magic of the Christmas season with ballroom dances of the 19th century one last time!

Dresden

The dances to be taught at the course

* „Varsovianna Quadrilles“ The Varsovianna Quadrilles appeared in the “Ballroom Monitor” dance book by Professor C. Brooks, published in Philadelphia in 1866. It is an exceedingly beautiful and unique mazurka quadrille, which combines the couple dances Vasovienne (Warsaw mazurka), polka-mazurka and mazurka-waltz with the typical 19th century features. It consists of 5 figures with a beautiful Varsoviennne music.

* “Fairy Tale Waltz Cotillon-Quadrille” Its origin can be found in Das Tanzmärchen (The Dance Fairy Tale) waltz composition by Josef Bayer of Vienna, from 1890. Arranged for the ballroom, it contains 5 little quadrilles, each named after a story from the fairy tale collection by Brothers Grimm: Sleeping Beauty, Snow White, Hansel and Gretel, Cinderella and Fairy tale ball all wonderfully enchanting!

* „Deutsche Redowa“ (German Redowa) From about 1829, a folk dance Rejdová, introduced at the Prague ballrooms, started spreading abroad. We have the description of this dance in $\frac{3}{4}$ rhythm, named as Rejdouva, from dancing master J.G. Häcker from 1835. The Redowa and Redowa waltz reached Paris by 1845, and the following year it was introduced to London by Mr Coulon. In 1869 the German music of the dance was published in Boston as “German Redowa” with charming variations for the ballroom dance floor.

* „Petersburger Schlittenfahrt Galopp“ (St. Petersburg Sleigh Ride Galop) A well-known musical piece by Berlin composer Richard Eilenberg (1886) gives a tuneful sparkle to this little galop quadrille with new galop figures.

* „Christmas Anglaise“ Danced in a triple-minor formation, 3 ladies facing 3 gentlemen, with chassé-jété-assemblée step, this dance consists of four figures, named 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th Advent. The choreography is based on the original figures by Adam Rabel (Vienna) from about 1850. The 4th figure will no doubt create Christmassy atmosphere with the Jingle Bells tune.

* „Quadrille à la cour“ This is a German version of Les Lanciers (The Lancers) quadrille, how it was taught in Berlin from 1855 on. Our choreography of the figures La Dorset (Les tiroir), La Victoria (Les ligne), Les moulinets, Les visites, and the Finale à la cour will follow the instructions of the dancing master Amint Freising from 1885/1892. We will dance this world-known quadrille to the exciting music of Josef Strauss.

On the Ball Night's programme will be dances learnt during the course and we shall further enjoy a variety of Viennese watzes and polkas from the era of the Strauss family.

Dance Experience / Information for Newcomers to Ball Dancing

We welcome couples, dance groups and single dancers with various dancing experience level (beginners/ advanced/ professionals) in ballroom, folk, historical or modern dancing. In our course you will learn the proper dance steps, figures, and correct posture. The intensive training aims to enhance further your enjoyment of dancing. Should you feel that you would like to reduce the intensity of your dancing, then you could arrange with the course leader to drop out of learning a dance.

For beginners without any experience we would recommend to attend first our weekend courses during the year.

The „Imperial Christmas“ Ball Night will take place in the Crown Hall of the Albrechtsberg Palace, Dresden

Dance teacher, organiser and Mistress of Ceremonies

Sylvia reconstructs, choreographs and teaches social dances of 19th and 20th centuries from Europe and North America at her Dance School since 2005. For the past 19 years she has concentrated in her researches on a wide variety of social dances - waltzes, polkas, mazurkas, quadrilles and cotillions – from 1800 up to date. In 2006 and 2007, while fully employed as a professional engineer, Sylvia completed training as a dance teacher of modern standard dancing. Currently, she teaches ballroom dancing in her native Germany and abroad. Sylvia also organises international courses with elegant ball nights in Dresden and Vienna.
